

TAX QUESTION CLEARLY STATED BY HON. L. M. RAY

Matters of Most Vital Interest in Graded School Campaign Explained Officially

DEPUTY SHERIFF AND EX-REPRESENTATIVE MAKES PLAIN CONVINCING STATEMENT

Strong Talks Made by Earlington Ministers and Other Citizens Favorable to Our School

MEN DECLARE THEMSELVES AT THE CLOSE WHO WERE ANTAGONISTIC BEFORE

Prof. Dudley Made Strong and Rousing Exhortation and Took a Vote

The mass meeting in the interest of the Graded School proposition was held Tuesday night at Temple Theatre, as announced, and was attended by a number of men and women, not all committed to the graded school movement but all interested and seeking to know the points at issue. Hon. L. M. Ray made the principal speech of the evening and was followed by Revs. Brandon, Dame and Brazelton, Messrs G. C. Atkinson and E. L. Wise, and Prof. C. E. Dudley, the latter closing with a rousing appeal to the school spirit and exhortation to the people to get behind the movement and do all the good they could for their children and their homes.

Paul M. Moore, school Trustee, was made chairman of the meeting.

Hon. L. M. Ray, ex-representative of Hopkins County, was the first speaker of the evening, having come upon an invitation from the citizen's committee, who asked him to bring books from the sheriff's office and explain to the Earlington people about the question of school tax.

Mr. Ray made an appeal in favor of graded schools and spoke to the enhancement of property values in cities where such schools were maintained and guaranteed by a proper tax. He called attention to Madisonville where he said the people had run the school along on just any system always until the last few years. Now they have an excellent graded and high school system and property values have greatly increased. He said the individual property owners of Earlington would have to pay a little more tax but that the establishment of a graded school district would maintain the excellent school we now have and would maintain and increase the value of his property to a much greater amount than the little tax he would have to pay annually. He reminded his hearers that whenever a family looked out for a new location they always inquired about the schools and the churches and always wanted to locate in a town where there were good schools.

He said that usually in a campaign like this the chief argument against good schools is offered by large property owners. Here the large property owners are willing to pay the tax and are helping to carry the proposition. He said the sheriff arranges his tax books by magisterial districts and towns. He said the tax for our graded school district would be based on an assessment as made by the county assessor and not by the city as assessor. Mr. Ray referred to the sheriff's tax book he had brought and told the audience that Earlington now has a total assessed valuation of $937,493.00 for the year 1912, not including any railroad or franchise tax. He said: "We will this year at Madisonville collect $1.00 poll and 16-2-3c property tax of all the people of Earlington, and it would be money in the sheriff's pocket for us to continue collecting this tax off of you. But when I am working for a man I want to serve his interests. And so, being your public servant, if I can serve you for whom I work I want to do it. Right here I will say that Earlington is the easiest place in the county for the sheriff to collect tax, and we get the commission on this collection. Looking over the Earlington assessments this afternoon I found an occasional man who pays on $5000 or more, now and then a $3000 list, and a few people who pay on $2000. The rest of the property owners run from $1000 to $500 or less. The big taxpayer of Earlington is the St. Bernard Mining Co., their list being in Earlington $571,000.00. That one concern, though they have not a child on earth, pay about two thirds of the entire tax paid in Earlington. You now pay 16-2-3 cents into the county treasury. You would pay in Earlington, if you vote the new district, not more than 50c and keep it all at home. You will almost certainly pay 20c on the $100 to the county next year and this money goes all over the county.

When you get your own graded school district you would pay no money for Nortonville, White Plains, Morton Gap or any other outside points. You pay now $1.00 poll tax to the county fund. You would pay not more than $1.50 poll into the Earlington graded school treasury. If you have no property the increase of your tax could be but 50 cents, though you might have several children to attend school. As I said, I expect you people would have a pretty good way to get taxes out here. The railroad valuations and the franchise taxes on telephone and telegraph companies are increasing rapidly. You people would draw every dollar of railroad and franchise tax and you would get it and keep it all at home for your own benefit."

Mr. Ray closed by saying that he would be glad to try to answer any question on the tax question. The question was asked, "Would the proposed graded school tax be a tax in addition to the present tax paid to the county treasury?"

Mr. Ray answered: "It would not. All you levy you get. And the county sheriff won't come out here and collect any school tax off of you."

Mr. Brandon said in his short talk: "I have never lived in town before where I have not paid a school poll tax. Mr. Ray has told you that the St. Bernard Mining Co. pays two-thirds of the whole tax. I would expect that the railroad would pay perhaps one-half of the balance." He predicted that if the Earlington people do not vote the graded school district and tax, that Earlington will have presently only the country district school lasting six months, instead of the splendid graded school for nine months we now enjoy.

E. L. Wise was called on and spoke of the splendid school building erected by the St. Bernard Mining Co., with a value of some $20,000.00 and devoted to the free use of the Earlington children. He said if the St. Bernard support was withdrawn we would go to the basis of Manington or Grapevine, or other country district schools. He said the man who rents a home in Earlington pays in his rent the taxes of his landlord and that the landlord owes the tenant something in the way of schools for his children.

Geo. C. Atkinson, president of the St. Bernard Mining Co. said: "Bro. Brandon spoke of what the St. Bernard might do. Suppose the St. Bernard should turn the key in the school house door. Of course, as long as I am at the head of the company that will not be done, but it might come to a six-months school. As I said to the committee, I would be willing, as president of the St. Bernard Mining Co., to have outside persons value the school property and then take off 25 per cent. By the assessor's list our company will have to pay more in taxes than it has ever given to public schools, but I'm for it and the company is for it, for the benefit of the children and the people of Earlington, and when September 14th comes we want to see you roll up a big majority for the graded school district in Earlington."

Mr. Dame said: "I have always been for schools and am glad to speak my sentiment. We have a good school now. There is no argument about that and we want to keep our school good and make it better. When I came first to Earlington I came out of a rural district where we had one teacher. My experience and observation has been that the country district schools are poor and there is not much advance to be had by wading through water and mud to the district schools. After my children had entered the Earlington school I was surprised at the rapid advance they made. When I went away I said that Earlington seemed to me to have one of the best schools anywhere to be found. We went back to the country and the one-room school for two years and two of our children were knocked out of their opportunity to get a good common school education. If the Earlington children have not a good common and high school education it is not because they have not had the chance. Now we say school building was not built by the people but by the coal company. We ought to be grateful for having had this privilege. These boys and girls are at stake. I would not give one nine-months term in Earlington for two whole years of such schools as we generally have in the country."

Mr. Brazelton said: "I think a preacher can have but one great reason for believing in this school movement; that is that he shall be for the greatest good to the people of the community. So that, when we take a position for this question, it isn't that we speak for any one interest, but because we believe the proposition is for the good of the people in the church and the community. If I see something that would attack the health or morals of the people I must be against that thing, and must be for the things that benefit the people." He said he came from Mobile, a city of 60,000, to Earlington with 5,000 people because the people of his church wanted him, because he wanted to come and because in Earlington he has as good advantages in the things worth having as he had enjoyed in Mobile school, health and other advantageous conditions. He said: "Suppose Earlington should go backward in schools? We cannot afford on any account to allow this. We do not want the Earlington school to be on a par with those of Nortonville or Barnsley nor any other place that hasn't good schools."

Prof. Dudley said there are many people who do not understand what it is to give the child a chance for a good education. He told instances of poor people he had known who have seen their opportunities and had sought education for themselves and their children and of the splendid results achieved. He offered a rousing exhortation for interest in schools and school progress, that will make something worth while of a boy or a girl. He said "The Public School is the People's College," and continued, "you have an opportunity today to give your boys and girls an education equal to the best anywhere." He said sometimes a school man incurred the displeasure of people in a district when he had worked for better school conditions that required a tax, and he added, "If I have to take a tie ticket next spring and go down the track out of Earlington, because I have worked to vote a school tax here, I'll go with happiness in my heart if you have voted the tax and made your school sure for the future." He showed a directory of graded schools in Kentucky and urged Earlington to get into the class of regularly constituted graded schools. He said Nebo was about to vote on the graded school question and would carry. In conclusion Prof. Dudley predicted a decided victory for the graded school, to be won by home makers and lovers of their children and the good of the community.

Opposed to Flirting
Approving individual action taken by postmasters of many large cities. Postmaster General Hitchcock has issued a general order which has the avowed purpose of checking the use of general delivery windows for carrying on flirtatious and clandestine correspondence. Any persons who wish mail at general delivery windows instead of home addresses may hereafter be required to give their reasons in writing.

Many complaints have been received by the Postoffice department that service at general delivery windows was being improperly used by minors, particularly young girls and by residents ordinarily served by mail carriers.

EDUCATIONAL MASS MEETING

Will be Held at Temple Theatre On Sunday Night Sept. 8th

NO SERVICES AT CHURCHES

By an agreement of the various Churches of the city there will be no services held at the Churches this coming Sunday night. But instead there will be a mass meeting of the citizens held at the Temple Theatre at 7:45 p. m.

Prof. Harvey G. Brownell, president of Bethel College at Hopkinsville, will address the meeting. Prof. Brownell is an educator of experience and should be heard by all who are interested in the graded school question.

There will also be a meeting held at Temple Theatre Monday night at 8 o'clock. This meeting will be addressed by County Supt. A. J. Fox and the Hon. H. F. S. Bailey. Come and hear these gentlemen if you are interested in our public school and the future education of the children of Earlington.

Everybody is liable to "catch cold" but those who give a cold proper attention never have serious lung diseases. It is neglect that makes them serious. Prudent persons use BALLARD'S HOREHOUND SYRUP as soon as the trouble appears and the cold is cured at once. Price 25c, 50c and $1.00 per bottle. Sold by St. Bernard Mining Co., Incorporated Drug Department.

VOTER ASKS LIGHT ON TAX QUESTION

Wrong View That People Might Have to Pay School Tax Twice

MOST MEN ONLY NEED TO KNOW THE FACTS TO FAVOR THE GRADED SCHOOL

Earlington Sept. 4 1912

Editor of the Earlington Bee—
Being desirous to acquaint myself more fully in regard to the proposed Earlington School Tax which is now before the people of this town, and for the benefit of other citizens of our town that are laboring under the self same difficulty as myself. I wish to propound a few questions on the subject, viz:

It is said that the present School Tax we are paying is not used to support our home school but is used to support all the schools throughout the county etc.

Query.—Have we the power to change this?

Answer: Yes, the law confers upon us the power to separate ourselves from the rest of the county by voting a graded common school district. Generally speaking all taxes are enactments of the Legislature. Will it take the same power to change it?

Answer: The people, who make the legislature, hold the power of voting tax upon themselves in towns or districts, for school or other purposes, under legal restrictions.

Query.—Should the proposed graded school tax carry on Saturday 14th, will we not still pay our pro ratio of school tax throughout the county?

Answer: No. You are respectfully referred to statements made Tuesday evening by the Hon. L. M. Ray, in his address on the tax question at Temple Theatre.

Query.—Is a city that maintains a Graded School of its own exempt from paying school tax in the County?

Answer: Yes. Read Mr. Ray's statements.

Explanations of these queries and answers to the same will greatly relieve the minds of the voters of the town of Earlington.

Respectfully,
Voter.

Improved Educational Conditions From an Investment Standpoint

By JOHN B. M'FERRAN, Chairman Educational Committee, Louisville Commercial Club

I.

STUDYING the educational situation in the state, I am more and more impressed with the absolute necessity for a radical change in our viewpoint concerning the subject. We have been viewing the schools rather as a necessary evil, an expense to be kept at the minimum of cost. The logical result has been largely attained—cheap houses, cheap grounds, cheap equipment and in too many cases cheap teachers, cheap trustees, cheap county boards and cheap county superintendents.

In fact, so long has this policy prevailed that we have dwarfed everything pertaining to our schools, even our educators, and most of all ourselves, the average citizens. The whole outfit is a cheap and inadequate thing for the twentieth century. OUR SLIPSHOD AND CHAOTIC SYSTEM, IF SYSTEM IT CAN BE CALLED, POSSIBLY ANSWERED FAIRLY WELL THE NEEDS OF FORTY OR FIFTY YEARS AGO, but everything else has moved tremendously within that time and moved with the greatest celerity and momentum.

With our schools here in Kentucky we have practically stood still, trusting to luck or some other mysterious power to supplement our indifference and neglect. Not so with other more prosperous and progressive states, fully recognizing the value and importance of their children. With enlightened zeal and intelligence their tendency has been to crowd all the money into their schools that could be judiciously used, looking upon it as a wise, businesslike proposition, a most profitable investment, and so it has proved, states younger and no more favorably situated, with really inferior natural resources, surpassing us in material wealth two and three fold.

BEFORE WE CAN MAKE THE NEEDED AND DESIRED PROGRESS WE MUST GET THE VIEWPOINT THAT IT IS NOT ONLY OUR HIGH AND HOLY DUTY, BUT MOST PROFITABLE, TO SEE OUR CHILDREN AND THEIR SCHOOLS FROM THE INVESTMENT SIDE AND PROVIDE GENEROUSLY THE FINANCIAL AID THAT IS IMPERATIVELY NEEDED.

Furthermore, we must awaken out of our apathy and see that this money is used to the best advantage and not frittered away by incompetence or graft. We have been furnishing two and a half to three million dollars per annum for our schools for a number of years. What number of citizens have at any time taken the slightest interest to know how this money was being expended? There seems to have been great waste. WE HAVE ALLOWED THE INTEREST OF OUR CHILDREN TO DRIFT INTO POLITICS AND INTO CONFUSION. IT IS HIGH TIME TO CORRECT THIS.

COLORED COLUMN.

REV. J. R. EVANS, EDITOR

Services at the city church last Sunday were good.

Rev. R. H. Kennedy D. D. our general missionary preached quite an eloquent sermon last Sunday morning at the Baptist church.

The Baptist church at Victoria mine will have basket dinner next Sunday. There will be three services. Rev. E. Martin will have charge of the services for the day. You are cordially invited to be present.

Mr. Will Mitchell and wife, of Columbia, Tenn., have returned to the city.

Mrs. Mary Beiffant, of Columbia, Tenn., is in the city visiting relatives and friends.

Messrs. Hermon and John L. Edmondson left Tuesday for St. Louis and other points west.

Rev. O. Carrington, who has been out of the city for several days closing out the business of his lather's estate, has returned and asks the hearty cooperation of all his members in getting ready for the annual conference.

Mrs. Alice Roberson, of Gallatin, Tenn., and Mrs. Jennie Jagoe, of Morgans were visiting Mrs. Millie Hargraves last week.

Mr. Ira Collins, who is visiting in St. Louis, reports that he is having a fine time.

All of our sick people seem to be improving.

Mrs. J. R. Evans is expecting her sister Mrs. Etta Varnado, of Canton Miss., Wednesday night Sept. 4.

The public school had a very auspicious opening last Monday. The enrollment at present stands at 240. With the strong faculty of eight teachers and the hearty cooperation of the patrons we should have a fine school this year. We are told that the compulsory educational laws will be strictly enforced.

We hope no parent will have to pay a fine for keeping his children out of school.

The home of Mr. I. E. Edmondson caught on fire Tuesday morning but it was put out before any serious damage was done.

If you knew the real value of Chamberlain's Liniment for lame back, soreness of the muscles, sprain and rheumatic pains, you would never wish to be without it. For sale by All Dealers.

I know of a land where the streets are paved
With the things we meant to achieve.
It is walled with the money we meant to have saved
And the pleasures for which we grieve.

LOS ANGELES GETS

REV. S. M. BERNARD.

Madisonville preacher to leave Nov. 1st for California church.

At a meeting of the Officials Board of Madisonville Christian Church held after prayer meeting last Wednesday night the minister, S. M. Bernard presented his resignation and said it was like the laws of Medes and the Persians, could not be revoked he having accepted a call to California, where upon the church declined to accept the resignation putting the matter up so strongly to the minister that he with drew his resignation for the time being. No one except the Western Union Operator knew of the effort being made to entice the minister to the West. Tuesday the final telegram came from California and the work was done. The church to which Mr. Bernard is called is located in one of the beautiful suburbs of Los Angeles connected with the city by both steam and electric cars. They have just completed a new church building at a cost of upwards of thirty thousand dollars; employ an evangelistic singer to look after the music of the congregation. Many of the people of the community are well-to-do merchants and orange growers. The handsome church is soon to be dedicated and the congregation had its heart set upon having the Madisonville minister preach the dedicatory sermon, but he took the position that his first duty was here owing to the fact that the Madisonville church will be in its annual revival in October. At the time of his departure he will have served the cause of Christ here five years and is the senior minister in point of length of pastorate.

The local church was never in a more prosperous condition. Large audiences, frequent additions and a spirit of unity are everywhere evident. While regretting to see this family leave the community, their many friends must congratulate them upon being allowed to cast their lot in an ideal climate and the minister upon being called to a representative church, even finer structure which he led his people in building here three years ago. Mr. Bernard referred his Church board to a possible successor and they will consider the matter carefully. Every member and friend of the church will be present next Sunday.

DANGER PERIOD OF WOMAN'S LIFE FROM 45 to 50

Interesting Experience of Two Women—Their Statements Worth Reading.

Asheville, N.C.—"I suffered for years with female trouble while going through the Change of Life. I tried a local physician for a couple of years without any substantial benefit. Finally after repeated suggestions to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, I quit my physician and commenced using it with the happiest results. I am today practically a well woman and anxious to contribute my mite towards inducing others to try your great medicine, as I am fully persuaded that it will cure the ailments from which I suffered if given a fair chance.

"If you think this letter will contribute anything towards further introducing your medicines to afflicted women who are passing through this trying period, it is with great pleasure I consent to its publication."—Mrs. JULIA A. MOORE, 17 East St., Asheville, N.C.

The Case of Mrs. Kirlin. Circleville, Ohio.—"I can truthfully say that I never had anything do me so much good during Change of Life as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. "Before I had taken one half a bottle of it I began to feel better, and I have continued taking it. My health is better than it has been for several years. If all women would take it they would escape untold pain and misery at this time of life."—Mrs. ALICE KIRLIN, 358 W. Mill St., Circleville, Ohio.

The Change of Life is one of the most critical periods of a woman's existence. At such times women may rely upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

NORWAY'S AMAZING ARMY.

Foot Soldiers Who Travel Thirty Miles an Hour.

One of the most fascinating military sights in the world is to watch Norwegian infantry, mounted on skis, traveling and maneuvering. Even with rifle and full marching kit on his back a Norwegian soldier, when equipped with his snowshoes, can travel at thirty miles an hour on a slight grade, and even on level ground he can cover from fifteen to twenty miles an hour. The skis used by the Norwegian soldiers consist of flat pieces of wood eight feet to twelve feet long and four and one-half to six inches broad. The Norwegian infantryman is trained from childhood in the use of skis, and his skill is such that he can glide in and out of the trees without a crackle to betray his whereabouts.

When marching orders are sounded the leader swings out and keeps up a hot pace. Once in sight of a supposed enemy a pile of snow is quickly scooped up, and concealed behind this simple but effective protection the skiman can take pot shots at the foe.

During some recent maneuvers in which 10,000 infantrymen participated the value of skis as an adjunct in warfare was clearly demonstrated. Over roads piled so high with snow that cavalry would have been unable to make any progress whatever, the infantry, mounted on their skis, covered from twenty to thirty miles an hour without mishap of any kind. Of course, it would be practically impossible in most instances for the artillery, with their heavy guns, to follow the infantry over the snow clad roads and passes, but for skirmishing and scouting ski running soldiers are extremely valuable.

ODD MARRIAGE LAWS.

Lovers in Some Lands Meet Many Barriers to Matrimony.

In Norway no clergyman may perform a marriage ceremony unless both parties prove that they have been vaccinated or have had smallpox. In the same country a guardian may retain his ward's goods and chattels if she should marry without his consent. Marriages between one of orthodox faith and a non-Christian are forbidden. Parental consent is necessary to marriage in Russia, and if the prospective bridegroom has insulted his parents or grandparents or the bride's parents or grandparents their pardon must be obtained to make the marriage legal.

This rule of obtaining parental consent when the parties are minors obtains in nearly every country, and in some of them the consent of grandparents is necessary. Divorce does not dissolve the matrimonial bond in most Latin countries.

Marriage laws sanctioned by the Byzantine emperors are still in force in Greece. There are many conditions that prohibit marriage there.

Practically any reason that would justify the belief that the marriage would be unhappy, such as riotous or immoral conduct on the part of one of the applicants for a license, is a bar to marriage in Peru, where, marked disparity in class and social condition is recognized as an impediment.

Proved immorality and lack of sufficient means to support a wife serve as a bar in Austria. While a marriage between a Christian and a non-Christian is illegal in Austria, a change of faith after marriage in such cases does not validate the union.—San Francisco Bulletin.

Betting on Life's Chances.

Betting on other people's chances of life was a favorite amusement of the young blades of the eighteenth century and once led to a famous lawsuit. "Old Q." when Earl of March, laid a wager with a Mr. Pigot that that gentleman's father, aged seventy, would not survive Sir William Codrington, who was fifty. The odds were $8,000 to $2,500. Quite unknown to either, Pigot's father was actually dead at the time the bet was made, and Pigot refused to pay. March, however, sued him in court and after a sensational trial obtained a verdict in his favor.—London Chronicle.

Why Coat Lapels Have Nicks.

The following is said to be the story of the origin of the nick in the lapel of men's coats: When Napoleon first felt the sway of ambition he tried to imitate General Moreau in a conspiracy. Moreau had been Napoleon's superior and was exceedingly popular, but in the circumstances, with the Man of Destiny in power, it was not safe to express publicly sympathy with Moreau. His admirers and supporters quietly agreed to nick their coat lapels to show their fellowship, the outlines of the coat after the nick was made forming the letter M.

An Exception.

Some one or another once said, "It is a poor rule that won't work both ways."

"Well, try telling mother that she looks so like her daughter that you cannot tell them apart. And then try it on the daughter."—Variety Life.

Not Unusual.

"Did your son go through college, Bunkerton?" asked Wickley. "No," said Wickley. "He went through me, and I had to take him out."—Harper's.

Cumberland University, she was accompanied by her mother.

I will preach in the Madisonville Christian Church building next Sunday morning on the Subject "What must I do to be saved?" If there is any more important than for one man to present to another than this I know not what it is. The unsaved should understand it for their own good and the church member should understand it so as to be able to lead others to Christ.

At night the subject will be "Turning to God." This will be illustrated by the lives of great men who have actually turned into the path eternal. The description of their lives will be so clear as to make you intensely interested. You are cordially invited to attend both services. Large audiences last Sunday and 2 conversions.

The Men Who Succeeded

As heads of large enterprises are men of great energy. Success, today demands health. To all is to fail. It's utter folly for a man to endure a weak, run-down, half alive condition when Electric Bitters will put him right on his feet in short order. "Four bottles did me more real good than any other medicine I ever took," writes Chas. B. Allen, Sylvania, Ga. "After years of suffering with rheumatism, liver trouble, stomach disorders, and deranged kidneys, I am again, thanks to Electric Bitters, sound and well." Try them. Only 50 cents at all druggists.

HERBINE

Is the Remedy You Need.

It is an invigorating tonic for a torpid liver. The first dose brings improvement, a few days use puts the liver in fine vigorous condition. Herbine also extends its restorative influence to the stomach and bowels. It helps digestion and food assimilation, purifies the bowels and brings back the habit of regular daily bowel movements. When the stomach, liver and bowels are active, bilious impurities no longer obstruct functional processes, the result of which is renewed energy, mental activity and cheerful spirits.

POSTAGE STAMPS

ENGRAVING THE STEEL DIES.

How This Delicate Work Is Done and the Processes by Which the Designs Are Transferred to the Plates—Printing and Gumming the Sheets.

The manufacture of postage stamps involves a process not altogether simple. There is much labor given to the making of the little wafers with which everybody is so familiar. The first step toward the production of the stamp is, of course, the engraving of the die with which it is printed. Only steel of the finest quality is used for the purpose, and upon this the engravers slowly and laboriously cut line by line the portrait or the emblem that the government has selected for the particular stamp in hand.

Engravers call this die a "negative," for the reason that it is a reversal of the design that the stamp will exhibit.

Upon the completion of the die proofs are "pulled." Should these prove satisfactory the die is then hardened and fixed in the bed of a press of great power. Then a steel roller whose circumference is several times the diameter of the die is passed over it, immense pressure being applied, so that every line cut on the surface of the die may be impressed upon that of the roller as many times as the circumference of the roller is larger than the area of the die. The result is that there are reproduced on the roller four perfect copies of the die, but copies that are reversed. Engravers call these impressions "positives."

The next step is to harden the roller in order that it may give the impressions once more, this time to the plate from which the real printing is to be obtained. This plate, which is also of the finest steel, is of a size large enough to print a sheet of stamps, numbering from 200 to 300, at a single impression. Great pressure is brought to bear upon the surface of this plate, once for each stamp in the subsequent sheet, and then the plate is hardened. It follows, of course, that such impressions are "negatives" and that the prints obtained from them—the stamps themselves—are "positives."

It should be stated at this point that the reason why the printing is done in this way instead of from a single die lies in the fact that such enormous numbers of stamps are required. Then, too, the printing could not be done from the roller, inasmuch as on the roller the lines are in "relief" instead of being "incised." Furthermore, it would not be practicable to employ several dies or a great number of them engraved. The expense would be too great, and no two stamps would be absolutely alike.

When the workmen have obtained three satisfactory printing plates these are fastened to the bed of a special kind of printing press. Peculiar care is exercised in the process of inking. Upon the starting of the machinery the first plate is inked and wiped automatically until the plate fairly shines. This wiping takes away all the ink except that which clings to the lines of the 200 or 300 engravings.

The printers lay over the plate a sheet of dampened paper, a slight degree of heat is applied to the plate in order that the ink may "swell," and then more pressure is applied. During all this time the second plate has been receiving its ink, and subsequently the third is brought into action, with the result that, although all three plates are on the same press, each one of them is at a given moment undergoing a different process from its fellows.

When the printed sheets have been properly dried they are sent to a gumming machine. In this they are passed between a dry roller on one side and a roller moistened with mucilage on the other. From the rollers they emerge, wet side up, on to an endless web that conveys them through a steam heated box.

From this box they reappear to receive the perforations, which are made by passing the sheets between a cylinder provided with steel pins and a cylinder perforated with holes to match the pins.

The last step in the manufacture of the stamp is the pressing of the sheets to overcome their tendency to curl by reason of the mucilage used. This pressing is accomplished by hydraulic power.

Eating One's Boots.
"Rawhide or even leather, if boiled for hours, will make nutritious soup," says a writer in an exchange on the subject of what a man lost in the woods may find to eat. "Many a man has bridged the awful gap by boiling his boots, whence the phrase to express the final extreme. 'I'll eat my boots first.' Mark Twain was once put to this final resort and recorded afterward that 'the holes tasted the best.'"

Real Energy.
A scientific writer points out that the energy of the match is great enough to heat 7,500 times its weight in water 1 degree F. If this be true consider the energy contained in an artfully placed carpet tack!—New York Telegraph.

If you know how, a thing is not hard; if it is hard, then you don't know how.—Chinese Proverb.

A Bunch of Violets

HERE is the card?" cried Ruth Ashton as she opened a box containing a gorgeous bunch of violets.

"It's anonymous," she exclaimed joyously. "From some unknown admirer who cares so much that he's afraid to sign his name."

"Can't you guess who sent them?" questioned her sister Jane, anxiously. "Don't you think they're from Cousin Rob?"

"Cousin Rob! I should say not. Cousins are not apt to send those kind of bouquets all tied in chiffon ribbons."

"It may be from George Butler, who sings in our choir. That's just who it's from. Not long ago we were discussing our favorite flower and I remarked I just adored the modest violet. Talking is not much on his line, but the way he turns my music is a perfect education."

"Has he ever shown you any special devotion? Don't be too positive; you may be mistaken," suggested practical Jane.

"No, I'm sure he's the Mr. Anonymous. When they're most devoted they're usually diffident to show it. It must have taken a whole week's salary to pay for that bouquet," added Ruth, who was prone to exaggeration.

Ruth was on the shady side of 20; very little happened to disturb the even tenor of her life. All her days she had craved for admiration from the opposite sex, but no one was the wiser. The last few years she had devoted her time to teaching in the settlements, joining in the activities of different woman's clubs.

At the meeting of the Service club that afternoon when Ruth read her paper, the violets were pinned on her waist with their faces toward hers as if begging to be admired and loved.

While reading her report on children's play grounds she was fairly radiant, saying to herself, "I wonder if they all know I have a beau?" One of the committee said to her in the most natural way, "You must have a special friend," with a meaningful glance at the corsage bouquet.

"I have, but don't mention it as yet," she answered quietly.

The news spread like wild fire, and there were many conjectures as to who the mysterious party was. All were happy in her happiness. At last Ruth was going to make a grand match, judging from the violets.

Returning from the club, Ruth met Mr. Butler as he turned the corner in his red car. Stopping his automobile he asked if he might not take her home. Ruth joyfully acquiesced, thinking this would be a good opportunity to acknowledge his gift.

George Butler was amazed during the short ride to find how different Ruth was. He had always found her cold and indifferent. Today she was a sweet, charming girl, sparkling, witty and interesting.

"May I call for you to go to church tomorrow evening?" he asked as they reached her home.

"Do come; I should be happy to go with you."

Her many references to the violets she wore caused him a jealous tinge. "I'm not busy if I want to win that girl," he said to himself.

After an intimacy of a few weeks Ruth announced her engagement to her amazed family. Just as they were congratulating her, a letter came from Martin, the florist, containing a card with apologies from the firm, stating they had just found this card which should have been enclosed with a box of flowers sent three weeks previous. It was from the Ladies' Aid Society in recognition for the good work she had accomplished for the club.

"I thought it strange that George was so silent about those violets, but I don't care now," said Ruth as she tore up the card. "I'm engaged to the grandest fellow on earth, and the next time they send me a bunch of violets it will be addressed to Mrs. Butler."

Shrieks.
"I tell you," said Farmer Oortossel, "bein' a sheriff around here is a mighty hard job."
"You never arrest anybody?"
"No. But there is an awful lot o' false alarms. Every time one o' these summer girls sees a caterpillar you think there's murder bein' committed."

For Women Who Care

Of course you use an antiseptic in your family and in the care of your own person, and you want the best.

Instead of what you have been using such as liquid or tablet antiseptics or peroxide, won't you please try Paxtine, a concentrated antiseptic powder to be dissolved in water as needed.

Paxtine is more economical, more cleansing, more germicidal and more healing than anything you ever used.

Paxtine
ANTISEPTIC

In the toilet—to cleanse and whiten the teeth, remove tartar and prevent decay. To disinfect the mouth, destroy disease germs, and purify the breath. To keep artificial teeth and bridgework clean and odorless. To remove nicotine from the teeth and purify the breath after smoking. To eradicate perspiration odors by sponge bathing.

As a medicinal agent for local treatment of feminine ills where pelvic catarrh, inflammation and ulceration exist, nothing equals hot douches of Paxtine. For ten years the Lydia E. Pinkham Med. Co. has been regularly advising their patients to use it because of its extraordinary cleansing, healing and germicidal power. For this purpose alone Paxtine is worth its weight in gold. Also for nasal catarrh, sore throat, inflamed eyes, cuts and wounds. All druggists, 25 and 50 cents a box. Trial box and testimony of 31 women free on request.
